Vietnam discussion day spending attacked

By WAYNE FAULKNER

News editor

Student Government expenditures for last Wednesday's Vietnam discussion day have come under fire by the president of the sophomore class.

Bill Atkinson, Huntington sophomore and a member of Student Senate as the sophomore class president, attacked the discussion day expenditures in a statement to The Parthenon Tuesday.

Student Body President James Wooton, Beckley senior, defended the expenditure of funds for the observance. He said total cost would be about $1,250 which covers speakers, stickers and decals. The funds were taken from the Forum and Contingencies funds which do not require Senate approval for use.

"I feel the funds were misused because they were spent for one view only," said Atkinson. He contended only the anti-war view was presented.

Wooton said he feels the program was "quite objective" and that the money spent was justified.

In Student Senate meeting Monday night, Sen. John Rice, South Charleston senior, moved for a study of the discussion day expenses. The motion was referred to the Senate Finance Committee which is to report next week.

Rice said he felt the expenses were only for one side of the issue and that the discussion day did not represent student desires.

Also concerning the discussion day, Senate voted 16-8 to withdraw support of the Vietnam discussion day on a motion by Atkinson. However, on Tuesday Wooton vetoed the motion.

"I feel that President Wooton's veto of this motion will be doing the students on this campus a gross injustice inasmuch as he is directly going against the students wishes and the Senate's wishes," said Atkinson.

"I feel that he is using the power that was given him by the students for his own personal motives."

Charles Preston, Columbus, Ohio, junior and coordinator of the discussion day, termed the Senate action withdrawing support for the Vietnam discussion "...the most childish thing college-age students have done yet. I was offered no chance for rebuttal.

"The motion will have no effect whatsoever on any future plans we may have for another discussion day in coming months. His (Senator Atkinson) resolution is irresponsible and without meaning. I believe personal motives were involved in the motion itself.

"He (Atkinson) used block voting to pass it. This is the only way it was passed. The case against the discussion day was full of non-or slanted truths. I have no doubts as to the objectivity of the discussion day. I feel it was carried out in as objective a manner as possible.

"There is to be a meeting Wednesday night (tonight) to ratify the freshman election plans. I will then demand equal time to present my case condemning the resolution and the manner in which it was presented and organized.

"The most humorous thing is that the Senate is attacking our objectivity and themselves failed to present the resolution attacking it in an objective manner."

Atkinson denied there was any block voting. Block voting is a term used to refer to sororities, fraternities and other groups voting en masse.

In his motion to withdraw support of the "Vietnam Moratorium," Atkinson said the Senate had wanted the day to be "an objective comprehensive study of the war, and that this is not the way in which it was handled." He said a "moratorium" took place instead of a discussion day.

The motion also put the Senate on record as "being against, and withholding our support of any further Vietnam moratoriums, but offering our support of any truly objective, comprehensive study of the Vietnam War containing differing views from key note speakers on the subject of the Vietnam War."

Pam Slaughter, Dunbar senior, student body vice president and president pro-tem of the Senate, said of the Senate action:

"Actually as Senate president I'm not supposed to be biased, and what comes from the Senate is OK. However, what good did the resolution do? It was too late. I can see the senators' side. They were concerned about the miscarriage of their original motion for the discussion day. This motion probably won't mean anything except to please a few of the senators."

Following is the way Student Senate voted on the measure:

For the measure: Atkinson, Backus, Clark, Crewe, George, Hager, Holt, Keller, Kluemper, Lewis, Maddox, Grace Moore, Rice, Stiles, Willey and Worrell.

Against the measure: Borgmeyer, Edwards, Ferguson, Gant, Hensley, Klim, Petit, and Stewart.

Abstaining: Hunter, Stover, and Tanner.

Absent: Fletcher, Foy, Kinsey, Kincaid, Chris Moore, Robinson, Shoub, and Wills.

Senator Burgess arrived after the vote.

Departments understaffed but no funds available

Several University departments have complained about a shortage of student assistants this semester, but apparently little relief is in sight.

Terry Myers, financial aid officer, said while some departments are understaffed with student assistants no more will be placed at this time because all funds have been exhausted.

Myers added that additional money is available to hire student employees, but this is under the work-study program. Work-study positions are still open and these people could be employed to alleviate some of the problems of departments, but qualified students have not applied. To qualify a student's family must be below a certain income level.

There are 65 work-study positions still open including 25 on campus and 40 off campus.

According to Myers some students do not have the background for some positions which require classwork or other experience in the field of the department where they are employed.

Myers also asked that any student who has been allocated under $300 in the Work-Study program should report immediately to his office for job placement.

Any work-study students wishing to work at Huntington State Hospital, Cammack Children's Center, Social Security office, Boy's Club of Huntington or Ceredo-Kenova YMCA should contact him.

Students who have turned in applications to be qualified for work-study may now check on their eligibility for a position.

Veterans Club elects

Frosh elections in union today

Freshman elections will take place today from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the basement of the student union.

Voting for freshman class president, vice president and advisory board is open to all full-time freshmen. Students must present ID and activity cards.

Although Student Body President Jim Wooton vetoed the original idea of the freshman advisory board, the board will be elected tomorrow and will assume the duties of an executive committee of the freshman class without any seat or voice in Senate other than that of a spectator.

This decision was made, according to Wooton, because a freshman advisory board as set up by the Senate would be in conflict with the MU Constitution.

Frosh board idea vetoed in favor of committee

Student Body President Jim Wooton has vetoed the freshman advisory board as originally conceived by the Student Senate, and instead has ordered the board still be elected today to serve as a committee.

In a report delivered to the Senate for Wooton by Vice President Pam Slaughter, instead of the original idea, it was requested the board still be elected but be made an executive committee of the freshman class without any seats or voice in Senate other than that permitted spectators.

Wooton based his decision on four points in a written message to Senate Monday night:

(1) It is necessary to have freshmen represented by an ex-officio board because theoretically they are represented by elected representatives of the Constitution.

(2) It is discrimination in that the sophomore, junior, and senior classes are represented only by a president and vice president in the Senate.

(3) Among unanswered procedural questions: Can ex-officio members submit legislation; are they to be included in making up a quorum, and would they have debate privileges?

(4) Rules of parliamentary procedure currently used in Senate state that ex-officio members must have voting privileges, thus conflicting with the MU Constitution.

In other Senate business Jeff Stiles, Charleston senior, requested the MU administration conduct an entire study of campus security measures and report to Senate in two weeks.

Due from the Finance Committee next week is a report on an earlier proposal to increase the salary of the Senate secretary from $20 a month to $60.

Senate approved the appointment of Leslie McCarty, Barboursville senior, to Academic Planning and Standards Committee by Student Body President Jim Wooton. McCarty replaces Don Ross who resigned.

Letter to the editor

To the editor:

The Student Senate, by passing a resolution repudiating the conduct and organization of the Moratorium activities on Marshall's campus, has insulted the intelligence and integrity of every student and faculty member who participated in that day's events. If groups, such as the YAF, the SDS and the Veterans Club, had actively participated in the Moratorium activities instead of sniping from the sidelines, the "Day of Discussion" would have been far more objective than it was. My frank opinion is that the Moratorium was, particularly here at Marshall, one of the great moments in modern times. The day's activities at Marshall were objective, reasoned, sensible, and conducted in a thoroughly above-board fashion. I resent the implication that the Moratorium leaders and participants deliberately slanted and distorted the "Day of Discussion."

South Hall elects officers for year

Judicial Board members will be Jim Adams, Mansfield, Ohio junior; Vincent Boccio, Lindenhurst N.J. freshman; Richard Brautigan, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. freshman; Jim Calvin, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio freshman; Stuart Cottrell, Eustis, Fla. freshman; Jim Sly, Jaeger sophomore and Marcel Lejterman.

Receiving the most votes for Interdorm Council positions were Ernest Stepp, Stollings freshman; John Womack, Nitro freshman and Leon Yannacci, Yukon, Pa. junior.

Cafeteria closed

The cafeteria in Twin Towers was opened Saturday, and the main cafeteria was closed indefinitely for remodeling and repairs.

"Students will eat at either Towers or South Hall cafeteria," said Marshall Crist, food service director. "The hours will remain the same."

Since the main cafeteria is being remodeled, there will be no food service in it at all, according to Dominic Agostino, district manager.

"Students wishing to buy food 'a la carte' can do so at South Hall," Agostino said. "Dorm fee students and students wishing to pay the set rate will eat at Towers. Dorm fee students can also eat at South."

Vocational-technical growth discussed

"We hope to have a doctoral program in vocational-technical education by 1973," said Dr. Charles Jones, chairman of Department of Vocational-Technical Education.

Dr. Jones said, "West Virginia has not provided graduate programs in vocational-technical education. Our job is to train administrators and teachers in 10 areas including trade and industry, and health occupations."

According to Dr. Jones, a masters program will be ready by the summer of 1970. "We're now in the process of hiring staff and assembling programs," he said.

"Temple University has been helping Marshall since the Department of Vocational-Technical Education was established in July," Dr. Jones said.

According to Dr. Jones, Temple has contracted with the federal government to conduct 10 institutes throughout the United States.

Marshall will conduct the institute on "Administration and Coordination of Vocational Education in Metropolitan Areas" in Atlanta in March, and Chicago in April.

Dr. Jones said, "A new department needs visibility and Temple has been a great help. I feel this is the most important institute because we're dealing with school administrators."

Dr. Jones came to Marshall from North Carolina State University where he worked with the Center for Occupational Education. He also conducted research projects in vocational-technical education and taught courses in research and evaluation.

He also has served as supervisor of diversified and comprehensive education for North Carolina State Department of Education.

The Robe pledges new members

The Robe, men's leadership honorary, pledged 12 new members Oct. 14 at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house.

Initiated were: Ed Avant, Baileysville senior, Alpha Sigma Phi; Rich Backus, Huntington junior, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Scott Barnett, Huntington junior, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Doug Burgess, Huntington senior, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Denny Humrichouser, Ashland, Ohio, junior, Zeta Beta Tau; Tom Keeney, Huntington senior, Pi Kappa Alpha; Ed Miller, Huntington senior, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Tony Romano, Charleston senior, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Brent Pleasant, Chesapeake junior, Kappa Alpha Psi; John Rice, Charleston senior, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Jeff Stiles, Charleston senior, Sigma Phi Epsilon; and Charles Wendall, Fayetteville senior, Pi Kappa Alpha.

The next Robe meeting is 9 p.m. today at the ZBT house.

Summer Europe tours available for faculty, students and alumni

Anybody for a trip to Europe this summer?

John S. Callebs, director of development, is trying to make it possible for members of the faculty, staff, alumni and student body to take European tours through Travel Incorporated at reduced rates, according to Miss Mary Elizabeth Meek of Huntington, who is in charge of the International desk of Travel Inc.

Those participating in the tours can stay three weeks or as many as eight and they can go alone or stay with any size group. Tour escorts or guides will be available for those who want to be shown around.

Miss Meek feels this is a great opportunity for MU. "They don't have to go first class and it won't cost any more than it would to travel to California."

She said the only problem they're facing now is that the new Trans-Atlantic fares won't be set until the end of October. For that reason they won't quote definite figures until they're sure.

This will be the first summer for MU to take advantage of the tours, thus study and accrediting will not be available. Miss Meek said that after the program is established study tours will be available.

Hoof Beats

By TIM BUCEY
Sports editor

When a team plays 26 games without a victory, it's not always due to bad personnel: bad luck also plays a part.

Since that cold day in November of 1966 in Athens, Ohio, when "the streak" started, some "nail-biters" and some "laughers" are adjectives which describe some games.

In the year the streak began, the Herd finished with a 2-8 record and now that we look back, both those wins would have to be considered upsets.

Marshall won its first game beating Morehead 27-20 and The Eagles went on to win the Ohio Valley Conference crown, finishing with a 7-2 mark.

Charlie Snyder's crew then dropped its next seven games before the Kent State Golden Flashes came to town. The Flashes had a man by the name of Don Fitzgerald, who was second in the nation in rushing that year, and everyone was hoping Marshall could keep the Flashes from scoring more than 50 points.

But an unbelievable thing occurred. Not only did the Herd win the game but it handed the Flashes their worst defeat of the season, 16-7, and held the nation's number two rusher to 54 yards.

But then "The Streak" began.

Marshall traveled to Ohio University to meet the Bobcats and wouldn't you know it—Dick Conley, an OU halfback, had the best single day's rushing output in 1966 major college football as OU triumphed, 28-0. Conley scored all four touchdowns and gained 275 yards on the ground.

That was only the first of 26 though.

In 1967 Marshall lost all 10 of its ball games, but came close to victory three times.

In the third game of the season the Herd was edged by Toledo, 14-7, the next weekend Xavier won, 7-0, and in the eighth game of the season, Bowling Green used a field goal in the final minute to win, 9-7.

As has been the case this season, that game was decided by an official's flag.

Marshall was called for a piling-on penalty at the 26-yard line and the ball was moved to the 13. That brought in the Falcon's field goal kicker who booted one through from the 23 with only 59 seconds remaining.

Other close games during the streak were the opening game of the 1968 season under new Head Coach Perry Moss when the Herd tied Morehead, 7-7, and then the seventh game of the season when Louisville edged the Herd 13-10.

The 18-17 loss to Northern Illinois this season also ranks among the closest losses the Herd has suffered in its never ending battle to break the streak.

During the 26 frustrating games, 850 points have been racked up against Marshall as MU is relinquishing an average of 32.6 points per game.

Offensively, the Herd has scored 270 points and is averaging 10.3 points per game.

Besides going 26 games without a win, MU has also lost 34 of its last 36 games.

The worst defeat of the streak was last season when the Miami Redskins made a shambles of the defense winning, 46-0.

The most points scored against MU also came last year when Bowling Green exploded for 54 points and bombed the Herd, 54-28.

The 28 points scored by Marshall in that loss was the most it has scored in one game during the streak.

Marshall's defense gave up 358 points last year which is a school record breaking the old one of 352 set in 1923.

Defense has surely been the main downfall in the last three years since only three times has the Herd held opponents from scoring in double figures.

Once a team scored more than 50 points in one game during the streak, nine times teams have scored over 40, seven times over 30, four times over 20 and three times over 10.

But the fans still don't forget the battlecry of "Wait till next year."

ZBT runners dominate Ritter Park intramurals

Zeta Beta Tau fraternity dominated the intramural cross-country races held at Ritter Park's 2.4 mile course on Oct. 17. Other teams in the meet included Sigma Phi Epsilon, placing second, Phi Kappa Tau and Lambda Chi Alpha, third and fourth respectively, and a few independents.

Independent Norman Bias of the Niners won first place trophy in the meet with a time of 12:52. Four ZBT runners finished in the top 10 giving them the team championship trophy and 30 points towards the Presidents Cup, the intramurals championship trophy. The four were Denny Humrichouser, second; Randall Brown and George Smailes, seventh and eighth; and Mike Myin' tenth.

Remaining finishers in the top 10 include Ken Barber, Tau Kappa Epsilon, third; Andy MacMorrow, Phi Kappa Tau, fourth; Dave Gray, Kappa Alpha, fifth; Bill Crouch and Campbell Wall, Sigma Phi Epsilon, sixth and ninth.

The annual event was officiated by Coach Fink, track and cross-country, and Coach John Turko, intramural director.

Twin-Towers West to elect officers today

Officers for Twin Towers Dormitory West are to be elected today from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the office desk.

Candidates for the office of president are: Sarah Lewis, Pt. Pleasant freshman; Patricia Jo Shelor, Salem, Va., senior; and Karen Thorpe, Vienna senior.

Those running for second vice president are: Deborah and D'Anne Garrett, Dunbar freshmen; Becky Spurlock, Griffithsville sophomore; and Nancy Strimer, Parkersburg sophomore.

The Marshall chapter of the American Home Economics Association will hold a special business meeting today at 4 p.m. in Room 111 of Northcott Hall.

Fresh tryouts begin

Anyone interested in playing freshman basketball are to report for practice to the Gullickson Hall gym today and Thursday at 3:30 p.m. according to Coach Dan D'Antoni. Players are to bring their own equipment.

Twin-Towers fee hike protested

"The students in Twin Towers feel it is unjust that the University is trying to make us pay more for so called extra living luxuries," said Jeff Bergen, vice president of Twin Towers East.

Housing Director Warren Myers, notified the residents of East and West Towers that there will be a $20 increase in room and board because of luxuries the new dorm offers the residents.

"Just because we have air conditioners is not sufficient reason to raise our rent $20 on the semester, while other dorms have more luxuries. Hodges Hall is equipped with sinks and medicine cabinets, not to mention two-room suites.

South Hall has a double lounge area. The Towers were without light bulbs for three weeks, trash cans for three and a half weeks, and about 30 of the rooms haven't received chairs yet. The last load of beds for for East Towers was received just last week. Also, we don't have washers and dryers," said Bergen.

The Towers from government has started a petition that will be presented to Myers stating the reasons why they should not have to pay the extra costs.

Women's badminton games begin

Woman's single and double badminton intramurals will be held today through Nov. 6. Tournament play will be 6-8 p.m. Oct. 29-Nov. 6 on consecutive Wednesdays, Thursdays and Tuesdays.

Practice times are available Oct. 22-28, with a rules clinic Thursday 5-6 p.m.

Entry forms are due in Room 107 of the Women's Gym by noon Oct. 28. Tournament times will be posted on west exit bulletin board of Woman's Gym Tuesday afternoon Oct. 28.

Faculty recital to be held tonight

A music faculty recital, presented by J.D. Folsom, assistant professor of music and trumpet recitalist, and Dr. Michael Cerveris, associate professor of music and piano recitalist, will be held in the Evelyn Hollberg Smith Music Hall at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

The program is composed of trumpet and piano sonatas by contemporary composers, including Paul Hindemith, Hal-sey Stevens and Kent Kennan.

Dancing: Expressions, emotions and grace

Expressionist uses rope as prop

By SALLIE KRIPPENE
Staff reporter

Dancing, one of the oldest of the arts, is a basic emotion and a means of self-expression for many.

A modern Dance Club has been organized this year. Its purpose, according to director Mary E. Marshall, assistant professor of physical education, is to provide additional experience in the dance for students who desire it.

She explained, "The dance club is designed for those students who wish to pursue a specialized interest beyond that which is being offered in the modern dance technique classes."

Campus blood drive set Nov. 11 in union

By KOLLEEN CREAGER
Staff reporter

A newborn baby lies in the hospital dying from the Rh antibodies in his system. A young boy is dying of shock from an automobile accident. An elderly woman is undergoing a serious operation.

Twenty years ago none of these three would live, yet all three of these people will live today. Thanks to blood transfusions.

It was one of the world's greatest discoveries; how to use blood from one human to save the life of another. Because of this discovery thousands of people are alive today.

This year the MU blood drive will be conducted between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Nov. 11 in the Student Union. Another drive will be conducted next March.

At the last blood drive 205 donors showed up last year. Of these, 40 were deferred, 165 units were given and the blood bank received 115 pints. Of the 165 persons who donated, only four donated on their own and were not representing a fraternity or military group.

Janet McGinness, co-ordinator of the women's division of the Student Government sponsored Blood Drive, said, "It is a shame when such a worthwhile cause can only find donors through a trophy. To many girls, donating blood is too unfeminine. Yet the girls are just as capable of giving blood as are the boys."

Before blood is donated all necessary precautions are taken. Your temperature, pulse, weight, hemoglobin, blood pressure, and medical history is checked. The whole process, even the withdrawing of the blood, is painless. It takes approximately an hour to donate, yet the blood taken itself lasts only five minutes.

Twice a year the Red Cross comes on campus for donations from Marshall students. From the blood they collect here 70 per cent comes back to the students. If any person in your immediate family, or living in your home is involved in an accident, or has an operation, or needs blood you may draw up to 10 pints of blood free without ever donating.

Speakers Bureau to hold formal initiation, induction of officers

The Speakers Bureau will hold a reception today, at 7 p.m. in the Campus Christian Center for the formal initiation and induction of officers and new members.

Ruffles take pledges

The Pershing Ruffles, a sorority and coed drill team affiliated with the Pershing Rifles of ROTC, has accepted 13 pledges for the fall semester of the 1969-70 school year.

The reception is for members who successfully completed auditions, according to Allison Alexander, Ceredo junior and president.

Those to be initiated are, Linda Painter, Weirton freshman; Ruth McQuade, Gauley Bridge sophomore; Stanley Lawson, MacArthur sophomore; Shannon Guertin, Decatur, Ill., senior; James Lawhorn, Huntington senior, and James Robinson, Huntington senior.

Members and officers will attend a party at 9 p.m. today at the home of the club president.

David Montgomery, Ceredo junior and member of the Bureau, will speak at 7:30 p.m. today at the Wayne Woman's Club. His topic will be "The United Nations--In Tension With the World."
